STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

The new stage route from Lewiston to Durham begins July 1st. It is a singular fact that at present, Lewiston is the only city of considerable town in the State, without mail service by stage. The contract Lewiston brings all their mails by rail.

A freight train, above the Upper Maine Central station, Lewiston, nearly up to the Fair Ground, Thursday, was coming into the station. Just this side of the Fair Ground, the train parted near the middle, the rear car breaking. The uncoupled cars followed the train, gaining speed on the down grade. When the train had stopped in Lewiston station, the uncoupled cars smashed into the train. Several cars left the track. Three cars were badly smashed and their contents were spilled. The appearance of the uncoupled cars was the first knowledge of the break in the train. It was fortunate that the damage was not greater. The crews were fortunate in escaping the track.

A Lewiston man states that he was recently visited by two bright young men, who had come from New York to Lewiston, on their way to Canada. "They said," said the Lewiston man, "that they were sons of evicted tenants of Lord Lansdowne, father of the present Lord Lansdowne who is now Governor-General of Canada, and that they were on their way to Canada to put dynamite in the tail of the Governor-General's coat. They were not brothers but sons of neighbors. They said that their fathers had bequeathed to them an inheritance of revenge. They were evicted from land in Kenmare, county Kerry, Ireland, dying of starvation and distress, subsequently. The Lewiston man says that the young men made investigations concerning possible evicted tenants upon Irish estates who might reside in Lewiston. In his opinion, being a clear judge in such matters, they were more than ordinarily well-informed concerning the tenants upon lands in Ireland. They had tickets to Canada, and when they are reported that they were bound for Montreal or Ottawa, to put dynamite into the Provinces and give the Governor-General, if possible, a specimen of what the dynamiters are doing in the old country.

Aroostook.

A. O. Burgess, Houlton, is erecting a large two-story building for a painting establishment, on the site of the one destroyed by fire in December last.

Cumberland.

The full amount of new stock in the International Steamship Company, some $240,000 has all been subscribed.

The promenade concert and dance given at City Hall, Portland, in aid of the Home for Aged Men, Friday evening, was one of the best patronized and most successful dances of the winter. The music by Chandler's Band was excellent, the saloons arranged for the comfort of the guests were draped, and the refreshments were of the best, and the order of dances was participated in by a very large and fashionable party.

Franklin.

An unfaithful maltster, of Farmington, is reported by the Franklin Journal, to have broken the nose of his mother in three places.

Hancock.

On account of the severe storm of the 10th instant, the annual meeting of Hancock District Lodge I. O. G. T., was adjourned to meet with Neal Dow Lodge, Ellsworth, the 24th instant.

Kennebec.

The old Congregational church at Riverside, Vassalboro, was burned Wednesday night. Loss, $2,000; no insurance. Probably incendiary.

On Wednesday of last week, Jas. A. Ward, of Dresden, was kicked by a horse at Berry's ice house, and had one bone of his leg broken.

On Tuesday of last week W. I. Grover, while oiling an engine at one of the Hollingsworth & Whitney paper mills, caught the forefinger of his left hand in the machinery and had it badly crushed.

During the heavy rain of Tuesday, the 10th inst., a dam was formed against a close board fence, by the snow and ice in the brook near the house of Judge Baker, at Hallowell, the fence giving way, a torrent of water and snow rushed down the course of the brook and burst the culvert near the Granite church, driving some of the French families from their homes in consternation, as the water rushed into their houses to a considerable depth. No great damage was done.

The earnings of Waterville station for the past year are as follows: Passengers, $31,141.41, against $31,102.05 the previous year; freight $50,032.05, against $52,638.67 for the previous year. The ticket receipts are steadily increasing at the rate of about $1,000 a year. Waterville stands near the head in receipts, being excelled in ticket receipts only by Portland, Bath, Augusta and Bangor, and in freight by Portland, Gardiner, Bath, Bangor, Lewiston and Skowhegan.

There were quite a number of accidents among the ice men on the Kennebec, last week. Geo. Metcalf had his left hand badly injured at the Centennial ice house, Monday, by a pick striking it between the fore and middle finger. Thursday afternoon a workman named Alton Fossett, at work in one of the ice houses of the Knickerbocker company, at Smithtown, cut off his toes with an ice chisel. On Thursday of last week, while at work at McCausland's ice house at Farmingdale, Michael Hickley had a pick driven through his left hand, nearly severing two fingers. Mr. Daniel Reed, of South Pittston, had one of his legs broken Friday of last week, by a cake of ice, while at work at the Independent ice house. He was switching ice in one of the houses, and switched his block, when the next block came off the side of the run striking him in the leg and breaking both bones below the knee. He is now doing nicely. No one was to blame for the accident, and it was not the result of carelessness, as some might suppose.

Sagadahoc.

Clark & Milliken, of Skowhegan, have purchased the saw mill property of O. B. Foster & Son, of Richmond, and will carry on the business at that place hereafter.

The Richmond Bee says the owners of a majority of the stock of the skating rink have concluded to convert the building into a canning factory for the canning of corn, beans, peas, tomatoes and all kinds of fruit such as apples, pears and berries.

The ice houses of the Drummond pond at Phipsburg, were blown down, Tuesday morning. Loss about $500. Vessels at the wharf broke away and received some damage. The Drummond mansion was also somewhat damaged and several cellars overflowed with water.

Somerset.

James B. Dascomb has been chosen President of the First National Bank of Skowhegan, vice Coburn, deceased.

Waldo.

Burnham must be a lonesome sort of place. A correspondent of the Belfast Journal says there is but one newly married pair in town, (he seventy-six, she sixty-five,) while there are sixty-five people living the life of single blessedness. There are twenty-nine widows and five widowers. The others, of both sexes, are nearly, or have passed, the age of thirty years.

Washington.

Mr. Isaac G. Blanchard, for many years publisher of the East Boston Ledger, and later editor of the Daily Voice, died in Florida, Feb. 1. Mr. Blanchard was born at Charlotte, in 1810, and learned the printing business in the Sentinel office at Eastport. He was also a writer for several publications, and well skilled in painting and phonography. He was a prominent abolitionist.

York.

Mrs. George L. Peavey, of Lynn, who was so severely injured at South Berwick some time ago, has settled her claim against the Eastern railroad, it is stated, for $3,300.

Miss Ellis Hatch, daughter of Mr. E. Hatch, of Wells Depot, about twenty-nine years of age, died at Salem, Mass., on the 4th inst., of pneumonia. Her remains were brought to Wells, and the funeral services were held on the 8th inst. The anxious, loving relatives noticed color and warmth, and hopes were entertained that the young lady was in a trance. The burial was postponed, creating much excitement and comment. Physicians stated that life was extinct, but could give no satisfactory reason for the warmth. After five days of loving watchfulness and prayer for the departed spirit, the parents consented to the burial of the body, which had commenced to decay.

Fashions.

(New York Evening Post.)

All the shades of heliotrope and lilac are in high favor abroad.

Wide turn-over collars, hand-finely embroidered in white, are much worn by stylish young ladies. These fasten with a jewelled collar-button, and a maline knot, and ends of silk or ribbon in rich Persian colors are added below.

Among splendid novelties sent over from Paris are dress trimmings and embroideries of gold and silver bullion, appliques in shaded chenille and imitation jewels, incrustations in relief upon velvet, satin, and brocade.

It is said that bright-colored satins are now fashionably laid down the centre of the dinner table, that dark plush scarfs, embroidered, but edged with a heavy silk cord, are more popular. In one fashionable house the floral decoration is confined to small ferns growing in pure white vases upheld by cupids of the same colorless substance, other fanciful designs being utilized for these same receptacles. A new fancy is to lay the thin and narrow slices of bread in the serviette. A white satin ribbon is tied around the whole, and a spray of ferns and white flowers laid above.

A pretty way to make a walking skirt of unpatterned goods in serge, cheviot, or Ottoman cloth, is to arrange the trimming in five flat pleats separated by broad panels on which are placed five rows of velvet ribbon half an inch wide and that distance apart. This forms the front of the skirt and a tunic bordered with a like number of velvet bands is draped above, the long wide ends forming a waterfall back which is not trimmed but simply hemmed at the bottom.

Shot or changeable fabrics are highly favored in all sorts of materials from velvets, satins, and silks to woollens. For the coming festivities at Washington many lace dresses have been made up over or with shot silks, the two shimmering colors showing most advantageously among the soft draperies of lace. Ruby velvet Russian jackets over cream-lace skirts are also prepared, these skirts trimmed with dots or bands of the same velvet, the lace being mounted on ruby and cream-shot silk. Scarfs of velvet or satin coming from the waist with full lace at the lower edge, drawn together a little above this, and kept to hang naturally are also much liked over lace dresses, with such bodices as those just mentioned.

Among late winter millinery are shown some pretty bonnets suitable to wear until warm weather, which are made of many shades of brown cloth, the colors ranging from palest doe to dark wood brown. The cloth is cut in small-pointed leaves pinked at the edge, each leaf being laid over its predecessor without any special or set arrangement of color. The strings are of dark-brown velvet with narrow satin ones above of a pale shade of cream. Black velvet bonnets are shown with the crowns covered with a net-work of fine amber beads, and at the side are immense bunches of shaded velvet daffodils and foliage, these flowers and leaves appearing to be conspicuous among winter millinery.

Small-patterned damasks, brocades, ciselé velvets, Ottomans, and plain velvets, combined with a contrasting rich material, are leading fabrics for elegant dinner and reception toilets, the draperies being generally of the plain material, and the flat portions, such as panels, skirt fronts, and tabliers, of the pattern. The bodice, however, is generally of the plain, it being more becoming to the figure. Bodice and trains of heavy satin dresses are untrimmed, and hang in straight folds without any raising.

A combination of a certain shade of pink and moss green is charming for an evening toilet. One recently noted had the pink satin skirt covered with cream lace, with a panel of the lace on one side trimmed with three crosswise bands of moss green velvet put on horizontally. The bodice was of the velvet with straps and lace across the front to correspond. Greens in moss, olive, and sage are admirably worn. The other shades of this color are taboo. If a lady were in these days to appear in a fashionable assembly attired in one of the ghastly and sickly greens of the former aesthetic craze, she would attract as much attention as an aborigine decked in blanket and feathers.

Square-cut bodices are chiefly worn this season. Some are cut heart shape in front and slightly pointed in the back. The casement-shaped bodice, with a guimpe of lace, is both attractive and becoming, and has found favor with many leaders of fashion, while the low-cut bodice, with its strap for a sleeve, we regret to chronicle, has amazed and offended modest people to an uncommon degree this winter.

There is a promise that black dresses, in surah, satin-sublime, Victoria, and gros-grain silk, and Ottoman, will be highly favored for visiting and church costumes this spring. When good, no material is more elegant and serviceable. Tucks upon skirts, flounces, and kilts, will be very popular with the plainer black dresses, where velvet ribbon is not chosen, and rich and costly appliques in silk cord, jet, and chenille, and panels and tabliers richly embroidered in black, will make other black costumes elegant and uncommon enough for any occasion.

A novelty for summer use which will be of great service both to dressmakers and ladies who make their own dresses, is the introduction of white skirting and dress fabrics already tucked, the tucking ranging in width from the merest hair lines suitable for lingerie and underclothing, to the very broad styles adapted to the formation of the full housemaid skirt and blouse waist. There is also cluster tucking with handsome insertion between in "all-over" goods pretty for dressing sacques, wrappers, night dresses, and the like. Some of these materials are exquisitely fine in texture, and the price by the yard is not as expensive as one might imagine. The less elaborate styles are within the reach of a very moderate purse.

In further answer to our correspondent who asked last week for suggestions for a fancy dress party, we quote from a letter from an English friend who sends us the following: "The guests arrived rapidly in costumes of all periods, and passed into the long saloon where they were dancing to the delightful music of two bands which played alternately. A demure nun in soft gray made a contrast as a partner to a gallant of the days of the Merry Monarch. An ambulance nurse, in a plain black stuff dress, a red cross embroidered on her left arm, a neat little case of instruments and a roll of linen and lint, to bear witness to her calling, was dancing an energetic polka with a gentleman attired as the Times newspaper, that publication having been run off on the press upon several yards of fine white duck. Grace Darling in her picturesque dress was the partner of a rosy specimen of an English lad, clad as a French cook. A Normandy girl, with her white cap, huge hoop earrings, pretty blue petticoat, with a striped red and white tunic, and a snowy kerchief crossed over her breast, was chatting gayly with a solemnly attired French abbé. A bewitching young debutante, as 'Polly put the kettle on' was arrayed in a skirt of blue foulard with a band of embroidery resembling kettles, a blouse polonaise of deep crimson was tucked up on the right side and drawn through to the pocket, short sleeves of muslin, a mob cap of the same were added, and a bow of red and blue was kept in place by a 'kettle brooch' made for the occasion. A trim little brunette as 'Good Samaritan,' with a willow basket on her arm ornamented with satin ribbons and containing tiny biscuits, tea, and sugar, was walking about with 'Robin Hood,' who was dressed in a doublet of dark green cloth, short cape with a collar of deep orange serge, leather belt with horn and bow, crimson worsted hose and half boots of untanned leather. Following on came a brilliant train of Sailors, Peasants, Generals, Watteau and Pompadour dresses, ballet girls in short tulle dresses and stately Elizabethan dowagers in trains, high, powdered coiffures, standing frills, and faces dotted with court plaster. Gay French gentlemen, who to a man looked like Napoleon come back; sad, disgusted-looking Greeks in loose robes and sandals, Brother Jonathans who seemed to feel it incumbent upon them to gaze about curiously and chatter like magpies. Fortune-tellers, with their cards, begged for a few pence of each passing lady. Flower and vegetable girls cried their wares, and tambourine players, Pulcinellos, Folly, the White Cat, troubadours, Hamlets, beggars, kings, dignified judges, and smirking clowns, all mingled in a scene which was a study fit for an artist's brush."

HARRY'S LINIMENT is clean and wholesome to take internally or apply externally. It will cure Coughs, Colds, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Influenza, Bronchitis, Whooping or Spasmodic Coughs, etc. It contains no soap or Spirit of Turpentine, or other dirty and repulsive ingredients, but is clean, pure and strong. Old people recognize in it an old friend, and young people find it a friend indeed. Don't take any other. All grocers have it. Retail price 25 cents.

Public speakers and singers find R. H. Douglass & Sons' Capsicum Cough Drops a sure remedy for hoarseness.

"If a well be poisoned, woe be to those who drink thereat." It is worse to poison the fountain of life for one's self, and for posterity. Often by carelessness, or misfortune, or inheritance, this has been done. Ayer's Sarsaparilla frees the blood, the vital stream, and restores appetite, strength, and health.

The glory of man is his strength. If you are weakened down through excessive study, or by early indiscretions, Allen's Brain Food will permanently restore all lost vigor, and strengthen all the muscles of Brain and Body. $1; 6 for $5.—At druggists, or by mail from J. H. Allen, 315 First Ave., New York City.

WHAT A PITY

that the otherwise beautiful girl should have such bad teeth. And all because she did not use Sozodont. It costs so little to buy it considering the good it does, and its benefits stretch out into her future life. Poor girl!

SATISFACTORY EVIDENCE.

J. W. Graham, Wholesale Druggist, of Austin, Tex., writes: "I have been handling Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs for the past year, and have found it one of the most salable medicines I have ever had in my house for Coughs, Colds and even Consumption, always giving entire satisfaction. Please send me another gross."

No other medicine is so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for colds, coughs, and all derangements of the respiratory organs tending toward consumption. In all ordinary cases it is a certain cure, and it affords sure relief for the asthmatic and consumptive, even in advanced stages of disease.

Allen's Bilious Physic is a purely vegetable liquid remedy for Headache, Biliousness and Constipation. Easily taken, acting promptly, relieving quickly. 25 cts. At all druggists.

Whig and Courier.

BOUTELLE & BURR, PROPRIETORS.

C. A. BOUTELLE, EDITOR

All [illegible] addressed to Boutelle & Burr [illegible] communications [illegible] addressed [illegible] Editor of Whig and Courier

TUESDAY, FEB. 17, 1885.

Only about three weeks now before our spring election.

The Boston [illegible] Washington correspondent speaks of the New York World as Mr [illegible] Street when?

It is thought that the Legislature will only two sessions a day, and that a final adjournment will be had one week from next Saturday.

As "Boss" Manning, "Boss" Weed [illegible] The [illegible] numerous minor [illegible] attention upon the [illegible] that the [illegible] controlled by the New York gang seems well founded.

The New York [illegible] and Mr Conkling [illegible] Herald [illegible] Cabinet [illegible] Democratic papers take a lively interest in the ex-Senator [illegible]

The silver question is now [illegible] contention [illegible] Mr Cleveland [illegible] being in favor of [illegible] coinage of silver [illegible] making [illegible] the subject.

[illegible] Mr Purcell's [illegible] expensive [illegible]

[illegible] Judge Doolittle [illegible] Mr Cleveland [illegible] ever built [illegible]

[illegible] papers that have kindly [illegible] Mr Cleveland's [illegible] better [illegible] Herald [illegible] portfolio [illegible] matter [illegible]

[illegible] progressives [illegible] Mr [illegible] Republican [illegible] Mr Boss [illegible] in the pending [illegible]

How [illegible] just the [illegible] to convince the people of the [illegible] of the Democratic party to conduct the affairs of the Government [illegible] Post Office Appropriation bill [illegible] Postmaster General to pay [illegible] steamship companies which will [illegible] mails [illegible] $ 00,000 [illegible] Democrats [illegible] Congress [illegible] majority [illegible] During the debate [illegible] strong argument was made in support of the encouragement to American shipping, but argument did not count against Democratic shortsightedness, or wilful disregard for anything but party. The Maine delegation [illegible] in favor of the [illegible]

The Northwestern Lumberman publishes an exhaustive review of the lumber product [illegible] the grand total of the lumber cut of 1884 exceeds that of 1883 by nearly a half billion feet or about as much as Chicago and its suburbs consume in the entire year. This gain is not equally distributed from Lake Michigan to St Paul. The manufacturing sections of the field made the principal gain. In the district west of Chicago and the Mississippi river the mills sawed 121,232,000 feet more lumber than in 1883, the Duluth District 2,871,000 more, while the [illegible] Lake Michigan East Shore, Huron Shore and Saginaw Valley made quite [illegible] distributed decrease [illegible] showing that the larger mills were run to about their full capacity, regardless of the fact that lumber was constantly accumulating in excess of the demand. There are 70 logging railroads in Wisconsin and Michigan, with a total of 902 miles, employing 110 locomotives and 1,819 cars.

The familiarity of [illegible] subsidy and the prominence given to the names of Gould and Sage in [illegible] says the Boston Journal, stampeded the House Democracy on Friday and caused their rejection, in Committee of the Whole, of that section of the Post Office Appropriation bill which provided $600,000 as compensation for the carrying of our foreign mails. The sum indicated is less than one-seventh of the amount which Great Britain pays annually for her foreign mail service. All the argument in the House was on the side of those who favored the appropriation and on the other side there was nothing but the bogy of a subsidy and animosity against capitalists. The decline of American shipping is lamented on all hands, yet the easiest and most effective way of building up these interests the policy which has been consistently followed by England and which goes far to explain her maritime predominance, is ignorantly rejected by the House of Representatives for fear that some benefit may accrue from it to capitalists who are assailed as monopolists. Such childishness intensify the yearning for a little genuine statesmanship in the Democratic leaders sufficient to enable them to look as far ahead as to-morrow and the day after. Their policy is as narrow and niggardly as can well be conceived.

The New York Sun reminds Mr Cleveland that three of his Democratic predecessors made shipwreck of their Administrations before their terms were half through. That paper proceeds to inquire indirectly if Mr. Cleveland, without political experience, is likely to prove the superior of Van Buren, Pierce and Buchanan, all of whom were experienced politicians.

A Washington despatch says: The Democratic majority in the present House has seldom lost an opportunity to show its hostility toward the measures adopted during the war for the preservation of the Union. Thousands of men who served in the Union armies and were disabled have been unable to comply with some of the requirements of the Pension Laws and have been compelled to apply to Congress in order to obtain the pensions to which they were entitled. For many years the House and the Senate have had standing committees to investigate and report the facts in such cases for the action of Congress. The number of bills in this class is always large, and in the last Congress the House, which had a Republican majority, set apart Friday evenings for the consideration of private Pension bills. At the beginning of the present Congress a like rule was adopted. Mr [illegible] of [illegible], who is chairman of the Judiciary Committee, which has reported several bills to remove the political disabilities of men who were disloyal during the war, obtained an order requiring that the bill should be placed on the same footing as Pension bills. There are about fifty House Pension bills on the calendar to say nothing of Senate bills of the same description. There will be only one, or at most, two more nights in which such bills can be considered. Of course some of them must fail, and a number of claims of disabled Union veterans will fail to receive consideration.

Mr Henry Nelson, who represents the Boston Post at the Capital seems to have no very deep affection for Mr Pulitzer, of the New York World, Congressman-elect. In a recent letter to the Post Mr Nelson writes: "The place which the [illegible] Joseph Pulitzer will occupy in Washington life will not be an enviable one. The greatest ambition of Mr Joseph's life is to obtain a [illegible] position. But Mr Joseph has set about to accomplish the ambition of his life in a wrong method. The cowhide driver of no slur on the drivers is intended [illegible] is much better to be in [illegible] the driver [illegible] blackguard [illegible] his way into [illegible] society, but he must do it by the exercise of his cunning [illegible]. What will Mr. Pulitzer's place in Washington be? His idea seems to be that he can make his way by brute force, and the editor he has insulted cannot possibly do him any good or any harm. There is no doubt that if the editor and publisher of the World had been in Washington during the last month he would have met with bodily chastisement. This would have done the avenger no good and Mr Joseph not much harm, but it would have given the butter and [illegible]. The World has blackguarded every one in public life except the few whom Mr Pulitzer clings to as friends. Mr Joseph has [illegible] with a change of heart, too, before he can obtain the respect of the world. It must not be [illegible] compromising advertisements which he obtained by [illegible] and it must not [illegible] circulation [illegible] in large numbers, or [illegible] whose features appear in its columns. Mr Joseph must abandon these tricks as [illegible] for apparent respectability or at least, if he is to make the [illegible] which he aims. Who says the Democrats is not happy?

Mr Evarts' Speech

In response to the address of welcome on the reception tendered him by the Union League Club of New York, Senator-elect Evarts made an eloquent speech from which we make the following extracts:

The Republican party that was formed into a means of saving this country, and that through every danger and against every obstacle, and with every degree of triumph and prosperity, has built up an unimpaired territory and an unimpaired Constitution to be greater and better than it was even dreamed of or imagined by the great founders of our Government—this party finds itself now cast out of power, and surrendering to the enemy the party [illegible] the State [illegible] and the control of Government. (Applause.) It is twenty-eight years since the people of this Government entrusted their executive power to a Democratic party and to a Democratic President. Now again they have entrusted that power to the same party and to a President of that party's selection. We in New York cannot conceal from ourselves that the centre of the army of the Republican party of the United States was placed at this point that was committed to our defence. No doubt the bitterness of reproach might be, should be felt in Connecticut, in New Jersey and in Indiana that when New York failed there was not an array of skilled strength that their success could save the downfall of the party's possession of the Government of the country.

Well, it so happens that there was one stronghold in the Government that our party had not lost, and fortunately it belonged to them to defend that control of legislative power, and to hold in a certain check executive power on the one hand and the Democratic authority in the House of Representatives on the other—I mean the Senate of the United States. (Applause.) That we were not lost by the election in November, and when it came the turn of this great State to say whether they were unanimously upheld in maintaining a good [illegible] and to retrieve, as far as might be, the great misfortune of the Presidential election, there was, I think, a resolute feeling in this State, that grew even in the attention of the people, in the attention of the public men in the attention of the Legislature, in the attention of the sturdy and valiant Republicans throughout this State—that it was our duty to suppress all personal dissensions and to consult but the one object of furnishing as well as we might, the strength of the Senate as it was contributed by this State.

A very eminent person—so eminent a person as the President of the United States—was thought by himself and by his friends to regard it in this critical condition of our affairs, to be no descent even from that great place which he fills, to take a place among the Senators of the United States. Our accomplished and popular Minister at the Court of France—there serving so usefully to the country and so agreeably to all its citizens—did not think it was unsuitable to that dignity that he should be counted among those that the people of the State might pass upon in the list that was before them. One of our most popular, most honorable and most distinguished Representatives in the lower House, Mr Hiscock, freely presented himself as in the list of candidates, and our late Attorney-General, honorable and honored throughout the State—Mr Russell—was equally counted in the list. And I, in a private station, found myself simply in this position—not at all a strange one—that as, from the beginning of the establishment of the party until now, I had admitted no limit to my duty to take a part in any service that should benefit the Republican party in its duty to its country and to itself, and wholly unaccompanied with the particular reasons or influences that should guide the Legislature in its selection from the list, I felt it my duty not to have my name left out of the list if any of my countrymen thought it properly there. (Applause.)

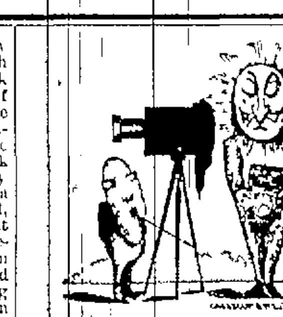

And now by your favor and that of our fellow-citizens, and especially by the support of my candidacy in the two houses of the Legislature, I find myself in [illegible] is really a new position for me—a position in which I have some accredited authority to speak in the name of the people of the State of New York. (Applause.) Before, I have had no place in which I could speak, except as a private citizen, and in the service of the country at large I am still to speak as a citizen and to speak for the country at large. But now I find behind me a power that must and shall be respected, whether I am entitled to any such respect myself or not. (Applause.) In the [illegible] of our [illegible] this State has shown itself [illegible] and aroused, from one end of it to the other, in the question of aiding the strength of the Republican party in the Senate, upon whomsoever their favor in their power should be conferred. That authority would be and must be felt in all the methods that affect the politics of the country, and now, somewhat late in life, I find myself much troubled by the fear that I may never [illegible] disappoint and frustrate the expectations and the desires of the great people of the State of New York. Our party needs no illustration to you from me. I believe it to be now at heart, in substance, in principle, in purpose and in its array of power, substantially of the same make-up that it was in 1860, when it first laid its hand upon the Government. If I could doubt, from this survey, the justness of this observation, I should feel no doubt, when I saw that the power that now has laid its hand upon the power of this Government, the Democratic party, was in heart and in substance, in purpose and in power, very much the same party that it was in 1860. (Applause.)

I believe that we enter upon the contest for the conduct of the Government with a [illegible]—if we are not mistaken in this present estimate of the [illegible] of the [illegible] it is sure as [illegible] that day will come round we shall reinstate in the [illegible] of that power the Republican party, and then shall have settled forever that [illegible] and that element that has disturbed us for forty years, a Solid South. (Applause.) I believe we shall remove from the disturbant influences that affect prosperity all the obstacles to the policy of this great people in [illegible] to the nourishment of their own industries. (Applause.) I believe that they will extirpate all the heresies that are [illegible] to shape or yet [illegible] to threaten the basis of coinage and currency, so that we can be devoted entirely to the prosperity and development of [illegible] And I believe that we shall have been in these four years, and in our renewed power, that just so long as the [illegible] suppression in the Southern country of the suffrage which the Republican party has conferred upon the [illegible] just so long there shall be found enough men in the North to vote on [illegible] that shall be crushed [illegible] this [illegible] people and [illegible] votes suppressed [illegible] will only breed a double growth of votes at the North. (Applause.) We do feel that there are some things expected in the conduct of the suffrage [illegible] out of [illegible] the Republicans and against such influences and against such [illegible] we wish to find the [illegible] disappear from politics [illegible] from the other forms of our civilization that there are [illegible] proposition that we may consider.

Mr Burk [illegible] in reference to political combinations [illegible] may be the [illegible] If the opinion of the country is of no use as [illegible] consideration, the qualities which usually produce the opinion will be no longer cultivated, and that [illegible] of free government, and free institutions, its spirit, its force. Nothing [illegible] conduct of Government except when there is a direct and honest relation between the party opinion and the people [illegible] and the public men that are expected to represent it. (Applause.) [illegible] and sinister [illegible] poison of the natural system will this perversion of this true relation of the popular life were [illegible] defeat, disaster, disgrace and destruction—not to the Government—they rest upon such permanent [illegible] to their culmination and decline and other supplant them and the glory of the country be [illegible] divided, but the party itself has no cure against this subtle influence, except its defeat or its reformation. I submit to your just and proud estimate of the Republican party that the history of parties has not been obliged to submit to its [illegible] and supplanting by another, but has had vigor of recuperation that has reformed itself and kept its power and its strength till a menace to the opposing party. Who doubts on our side who hopes on the other side that this Republican party is to fall into decay and destruction? Who feels sure of the tenure of the Democratic party beyond next election day?

Now, I submit that this last contest for the Senatorship has been a good tempered, honest, open, free, brotherly contest among this public contest [illegible] the [illegible] if the public men of the State will trust the people at large directly that relation between the public [illegible] and the parties at large, no matter who shall be successful among the competitors, then a better and a greater success for the party and the people will ensue than the triumph of the most limited man. It is got by other means than that of the will of the people.

And now when we are to have a governor and all the important places in the State establishment filled at the coming election, so important [illegible] to the conduct of affairs in this State that so vastly import [illegible] the first battle-ground for the [illegible] restoration of our party in power throughout the country, [illegible] an open and a frank consolidation of public men [illegible] aspiring, regarding [illegible] subsequent on their [illegible] to the great interests of the Republican party, and let us know and feel that whoever is nominated, it is the great triumph, and all who were contending with him are but an array behind him to strengthen him for the fight. (Loud applause.)

PROFESSIONAL MEN

Should avail themselves of opportunities to insure. Their families generally occupy social positions they could not continue if deprived of the incomes received from their salaries or professional [illegible] to give [illegible] If prospered and every thing goes favorably, people are apt to forget how much depends upon the existence of the life who daily efforts bring all their luxuries. It is not pleasant to contemplate the possibility of one's family being deprived of their comforts, so that they will be obliged, because of their poverty, to occupy a lower position in the social world. If such thoughts are unpleasant to consider, we advise all to provide for the contingency by taking an insurance upon their life, in the Connecticut Mutual Life Ins. Co.

A HEAVY STORM.

Rain, Sleet, Snow and Wind.

An Unprecedented Flood in New York.

Streets and Cellars Submerged.

Telegraphic Communication Cut Off.

Trouble in New York and New Jersey

NEW YORK, Feb 16. During the storm to-day a trouble of a peculiar nature deprived the Western Union Telegraph Company of the use of a great number of their wires between this city and Elizabeth, N. J. The strong wind caused the tide to rise to an unusual height and the water rise above the insulation of the shore ends of the cables under North river [illegible] all the wires connected with them. The effected wires were thus rendered useless until the tide receded.

Later—Streets and Cellars Submerged.

The storm made higher tides in North and East rivers to-day than have been known for over a dozen years. Along West and South streets nearly every cellar was flooded and all available apparatus for pumping out water was brought into use. At Vesey street the river overflowed into the street and many stands of butchers in Washington market were submerged at this place. The water on West street was several inches over the car tracks and similar scenes have not been witnessed for years.

The Storm in Vermont

BRATTLEBORO, Vt, Feb 16. A severe northeast storm prevailed here all day. From eight to twelve inches of snow has fallen and the storm has not yet abated. Trains are delayed notwithstanding that snow plows have been kept constantly in use throughout the day.

The Storm in Massachusetts

NORTH ADAMS, Mass, Feb 16. A terrible gale with much snow prevails in this vicinity to-day. A cyclone is reported from Stamford. [Here the lines broke down. Ed.]

Great Damage to Property Anticipated

TRENTON, N J, Feb 16. The heavy rain this morning has caused the river to rise and great damage to property is feared along the river front. Several mills have been closed owing to high water. Reports from points up the Delaware state that the river is rising and a fearful freshet is [illegible].

NEW BRUNSWICK, N J, Feb 16. A terrific rain storm has been raging here this morning. The city is cut off from New York by telegraph. The Raritan river is rapidly rising and there is every prospect of a repetition of the great freshet of 1882.

THE OLDEST INHABITANT DEAD

At the Great Age of 116 Years—A Triumphant Departure from Earth

WILMINGTON, Ill, Feb 16. "Aunty Wilmore," as she was familiarly called, or Nancy Cass Wilmore, as her real name is said to have been, died in this city Wednesday last, at the age of 116 years. She was undoubtedly the oldest person in the United States. Her last hours were remarkable. She could repeat many hymns and passages of Scripture, and although she never could sing before she is said to have sung beautiful on her death bed, and constantly gave utterance to such exclamations as these: "I did not know anyone could be so happy." "These are my last hours and they are my sweetest ones." "I have always prayed to die in the triumphs of a living faith but I never thought it would be so glorious." Her last words were "Nelms will but [illegible]"

FOREIGN NEWS.

GREAT RIOT IN LONDON.

A Procession of Unemployed Workmen Parades the Streets.

Government Offices Invaded.

LONDON, Feb 16. Great excitement was occasioned to-day by the riotous conduct of a number of unemployed workmen. Three thousand paraded the streets with banners bearing [illegible] devices.

The procession marched to the building occupied by the Local Government Board. A committee from the ranks entered the office and demand relief for the people they represented. They wanted immediate employment on the construction of municipal works, which they said were needed for the public good. The officials of the Board refused the committee and the crowd became a howling mob. The police attempted to interfere, but were soon overpowered.

The parties then invaded Downing street and stopped in front of the official residence of Gladstone. They howled and hissed invectives against the Government. A Cabinet council was being held at the time and the mob attempted to force their way into the room where the council was sitting. The police received reinforcements and ejected the intruders. The mob then attempted to storm the admiralty and home offices but were driven off and finally dispersed by the police.

Mr E S Bowler has placed a very handsome set of [illegible] letters over the entrance to his natural history store on Main street. They attract much attention.

Work on the Perch House at Pushaw which has been purchased by Mr J [illegible] Morry, of this city, is to be commenced [illegible]. The hotel is to be entirely refitted.

A large number of the prominent lumbermen of Bangor and vicinity went to Augusta yesterday morning to attend the committee hearings in which they are greatly interested.

The freight business is improving on the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad [illegible] report. [illegible] better travelling on the roads [illegible]

[illegible] of Frankfort, who was recently sentenced to seven months in the Penobscot county jail for receiving [illegible] pension fraud is to be taken to Portland to-day on a writ of error.

A special train consisting of a [illegible] and a passenger car went down to Bucksport yesterday carrying a Rockland party to connect with the steamer Katahdin. The trip down was made very quick.

The game of polo at the Oldtown Skating Rink Saturday evening between the [illegible] Clippers and [illegible] was won by the latter club three to two. The [illegible] of this city, soon play the [illegible] in Oldtown.

There will be a special meeting for young men held in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, this evening from 8 to 9 o'clock. The exercises will be for praise and prayer. Strangers always welcome.

The next quarterly meeting of the Maine [illegible] Christian Conference will convene with the Christian church at Newburg Centre, commencing Friday, March 6th, at [illegible] and continuing over the Sabbath. All are invited.

All from this city and vicinity who wish to attend the meeting of the Penobscot Farmers Club Wednesday, at Stetson, can take the Main Central train to [illegible] where they will find teams in waiting to carry them to Stetson.

Officer Thomas E. Allen seized a box containing the dead body of a deer on the down train to this city from Mattawamkeag last Thursday evening. The box was marked for Orono. The man who shipped it has not yet been found.

Mr Frank P McQuinn, of this city, formerly the efficient head usher at the Opera House, left on Sunday evening for Carson City, Nevada, where he will go into the mining and lumbering business with his uncle.

The meeting at the [illegible] church last evening was largely attended, and much interest was manifested. Mrs. Pohl on will give a Bible reading at two o'clock, and a meeting this evening at [illegible] o'clock. All are invited.

There was a smashup on the Hampden road yesterday. A Bangor man driving [illegible] with his wife was run into by a country team. The sleigh was smashed, his horse hurt quite badly and he and his wife received slight injuries. People driving fast horses on the road should guard against collision.

The annual meeting of the Penobscot Log Driving Company, for the choice of officers and transaction of other business, will be held at the Penobscot Exchange to-day, at eleven o'clock. At this meeting the company will determine whether the drive in the West Branch this year shall be [illegible] by the company or let at auction.

The members of the Grand Army in this section who are to attend the annual encampment at Thomaston to-day decided not to take a tug for Rockland on account of the large amount of ice in the bay. They therefore procured half fare tickets over the Maine Central good to return until Saturday and will take the train this morning.

It was reported yesterday that the steamer Katahdin was to be taken from her route which she resumed [illegible] Boston to-day, owing to the serious difficulty experienced in running through the ice in Penobscot bay. On inquiring at the office of the Agent of the Company the report was found to be untrue, and that the boat would make her trips as usual.

Steamer Katahdin, which left Winterport for Boston yesterday morning, was, between eight and nine o'clock last evening, trying to force a passage through the ice in Belfast bay to reach her wharf in Belfast. Whatever the condition of the river above and below, it is not indeed that the port of Winterport is obstructed by ice.

A public temperance meeting was held in the church, in Dexter, last Sunday evening under the direction of Ernest L. Plummer. Miss Hazle W. McFarland presided at the organ, the choir sang some beautiful temperance songs, and M. J. Dow, Esq., of Brooks, delivered an address. It is expected that a lodge of Good Templars will be instituted there this evening.

FANCY DRESS CARNIVAL. Active preparations are now in progress for the fancy dress carnival which occurs in Union Hall Rink, Tuesday, Feb 24. The skating surface will be illuminated by a large number of Chinese lanterns and colored lights which will make the scene unusually brilliant and beautiful. Mr S. S. Folsom, of Boston, will be here and show the most magnificent line of costumes. The party will be a very select one, tickets being obtained only of the managers. The Bangor Cadet Band will also be splendidly costumed for the occasion and will lead the grand march at eight o'clock. Messrs. F. H. Harlow and G. E. Boyd will manage the affair and they will spare neither labor or pains to make it the most successful ever occurring in Bangor.

STATE COLLEGE ITEMS. Our correspondent writes: The Spring term began last Tuesday with a good attendance. The Freshman class is increased by eight new men, with a good prospect of more. Riggs, Hunt, Keyes and Chamberlain of the Senior Class have not yet returned, being engaged in teaching. The Council for the present term are Hull '85, [illegible] '86, Williams '87 and Hancock '88.

Attention is called to the notice in another column of the dissolution on the 10th inst. of the partnership of John W. Coffin & Co., at Cherryfield. This firm has been engaged in lumbering on the Narraguagus River for the past twenty years and is widely known as one of the most extensive and reliable manufacturers of lumber in Eastern Maine. The junior member, Wm M. N. [illegible], who has had the management of this business for many years, has purchased the entire interest of the late firm.

There have been many calls for the little Tete-a-Tete Cook Book since the Young Men's Christian Association Fair, and a number have been left at the store of Farrington Brothers in Brewer for sale. Half of the proceeds will go to the First Congregational church building fund of Brewer and the other half to the Young Men's Christian Association building fund. The books can also be purchased at the stores of D. Bugbee & Co. and Charles Hight of this city, the proceeds going to increase the fund of the Young Men's Christian Association.

ANOTHER BLIZZARD. Despatches yesterday afternoon reported a heavy [illegible] and wind storm in New York and New Jersey, doing much damage to telegraph wires. At four o'clock the storm struck Boston and at six o'clock reached Portland, shutting off communication between the two cities, which was not restored till two o'clock this morning, and before three o'clock the only wire in use between Bangor and Portland was [illegible] west of Augusta, again cutting off communication, which was not restored until [illegible] of telegraphic despatches. At midnight [illegible] began to fall here accompanied by a high wind, and the fears of a blizzard continued through the night which may have a bad effect upon highways and roads by blowing the snow where they have been cleared out. The storm at the time of writing is [illegible] one of the most severe of the season.

RECEPTION TO THE LADIES AUXILIARY. The reception tendered to and accepted by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian Association for Thursday evening, 19th inst., promises to be one of the most enjoyable affairs yet held by the Association, the committee desiring to take every arrangement that will ensure the success of the evening, and it is the intention of those in charge to at least express the appreciation and gratitude of the Association to the ladies for their untiring and unflagging effort which have in so large a measure contributed to the Association's success in the past. We have been requested to say that the invitation extended at the regular meeting of the Auxiliary and by means of the city papers, are the only means by which invitations are extended to the individual members of the Auxiliary and their gentlemen escorts, they are therefore kindly requested to govern themselves accordingly. The hours of the reception will be from 7½ to 10 o'clock.

DEER KILLED IN CLOSE TIME. Last Saturday afternoon as a teamster employed by J Rollins, at Wytopitlock was coming out of the woods at that place he saw the dead bodies of three deer lying by the side of the logging road. He immediately [illegible] where Mr Rollins lived and [illegible] after [illegible] When he arrived the deer was found that only the hams and skins of the animals were left. Mr Rollins secured [illegible] and immediately telegraphed to Alvarado McLain, the game warden at Mattawamkeag, and he came up to Wytopitlock on the night train. Early Sunday morning Mr McLain went into the woods to where the deer had been found and putting on snow shoes tracked the persons who carried away the bodies fifteen miles toward Muddy Pond. On the way he discovered where three other deer had been killed and [illegible] who killed the animals had not been found but Mr McLain is confident [illegible] will probably be arrested.

A BIOGRAPHY OF THE LATE EX-GOV COBURN. Mr Charles E. Williams of this city, who remained with the service of the [illegible] and Gray, and who is the author of The Policy of Bangor, [illegible] is now engaged in preparing a biography of the late lamented ex-Gov. Abner Coburn. We have been favored with a proof sheet of the preface to the work and other matters of interest [illegible] prepared by the author. The book opens with the birth of the subject and follows him step by step from his boyhood to the end of life. A concise history of his youth and manhood [illegible] most [illegible] written. Mr Williams does not follow in the usual track of biographers, nor weary the reader with dry and tedious matter, but [illegible] and [illegible] use [illegible] of the public and private career of his subject [illegible] with sufficient matter of a lively nature to hold the close attention of the reader. We understand the book will contain a portrait of Mr Coburn's features, as also illustrative engravings of the various public institutions which by his will he so handsomely endowed. Much of the work is now in the hands of the printer. We predict a large sale in Maine, whose people owe so much to Mr Coburn's liberality and to whom the work is dedicated. The book which is to be sold by subscription, will appear in a few weeks.

MILO ITEMS. Our correspondent writes: The Baptist fair so often postponed on account of the unfavorable weather at last occurred Friday afternoon and evening. The afternoon was devoted entirely to the sale of fancy articles which attracted numerous purchasers. During the evening an entertainment of a literary and musical character was given which was well received. The whole affair passed off pleasantly and smoothly and was a complete success. The net proceeds will probably amount to about $40 which will be used in aid of the new parsonage which was begun last fall.—Messrs. Bailey & Parker besides their excelsior business are doing a large business in the manufacture of spool timber. They run their mill night and day and will consume over 1,000 cords of white birch this season. By far the greater part of this is furnished by Messrs. H. & F. E. Gould, who are cutting on the line of the Bangor & Katahdin Iron Works Railroad above Brownville from whence it is brought to Milo by rail. The excelsior department has been shut down for a number of weeks for repairs but work will be resumed in a few days.—Mr C. H. Austin, an estimable citizen of this town died Sunday morning from the effects of a cancer in the face.

ON TRIAL

State vs Charles Neally. The first witness called this morning was Silas B Mitchell: Lived in Stacyville thirty five years, at junction of Stacyville and David son roads. Latter road is too narrow for teams to pass unless they looked for place to turn out. Was acquainted with the Pond from the Stacyville road over which a man could drive a horse and buckboard. Was informed of the tragedy by Alfred Davidson about 10 30 on the night on which it occurred. Went down to Neally's. Saw the buckboard on the road when going down. At Neally's we found Welch lying in the dooryard, twenty feet from the house. Welch was lying [illegible] of his house when he was shot and fell forward upon his face. [illegible]

[illegible]

Mrs Julia A Herbert testified that she was sister of the last witness and testified to the party being at her house Sunday afternoon and evening. Mr Moore, Mrs Neally's mother, was there to do some spinning for her. Testimony in relation to events at the house and the time and manner of leaving did not differ materially from previous witness. Left witness' house between seven and eight o'clock. Heard the report of the gun about half an hour afterwards. Testified to Welch having [illegible] or nine, when shooting was done. Notified the neighbors of the shooting.

To the Court—Had been in the house about half an hour when the shot was fired. Welch did not appear to be intoxicated [illegible] than enough to feel well. Neither of the men showed the effects of their drinking very much.

[illegible]

The cross-examination was suspended at this point and the court adjourned for [illegible]

AFTERNOON

OBITUARY

Mrs Sally C. Gilman

Our correspondent [illegible] writes: Mrs Sally L. Gilman, wife of [illegible] H. Gilman died at her residence in Orono Monday morning. Mrs Gilman was held in the highest respect by a large circle of friends, by whom her death, although not unexpected, will be learned with the deepest regret. She will be greatly missed in the circle of her acquaintances, who sincerely mourn her death and who sympathize with her family in their great affliction. She leaves a son Mr [illegible] H. Gilman, who has been connected with the [illegible] of H. Poor & Son for a number of years, and a daughter, Miss Ada Gilman, a most estimable young lady, to mourn her loss. She was about seventy four years of age. She will be buried from her late residence Tuesday afternoon. The services will be held at half past one o'clock. Mrs Gilman goes down to her grave like a shock of corn ripe in its season with blessings on her memory and the love of those who knew her best.

AMUSEMENTS.

Nobody's Claim

The whole of the large audience at the Opera House, last evening, were more than pleased with the presentation of the Western melodrama "Nobody's Claim" by Mr Joseph J. Dowling and Miss Sadie Hasson and their company. The play throughout was well acted and is free from objectionable features. The [illegible] of [illegible], so common in most plays of this character, was not seen here, much to the relief of the greater part of the audience. The scenery was very good, especially fine was the representation in the third act of "Bitter Wood Cut," and the railroad train and the cave in the last act. Mr Dowling is a fine actor, and his impersonation of the daring young army officer "Wild Devereaux," was unusually good. Miss Hasson played the part of Madge in [illegible] and the [illegible] in many situations showed that her acting met the approval of the audience. Mr John Dollyn [illegible] Mr Frank Lawton [illegible] roars of laughter. His impersonations was [illegible] Mr [illegible] Davis's songs were heartily received. A MARVELOUS STORY

TOLD IN TWO LETTERS.

FROM THE SON: 128 Poplar St., New York, Oct. 28, 1882.

[illegible] My father resides at Glover, Vt. He has been a great sufferer from Scrofula, and the inclosed letter will tell you what a marvelous effect has had in his case. I think his blood must have been poisoned the humor for at least ten years; but it did not show, except in the form of a scrofulous sore on the wrist, until about five years ago. From a few spots which appeared at that time, it gradually spread so as to cover his entire body. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and an object of pity, when he began using your medicine. Now, there are few men of his age who enjoy as good health as he has. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in his case.

Yours truly, W. M. PHILLIPS.

FROM THE FATHER: "It is both a pleasure and a duty for me to state to you the benefit I have derived from the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Six months ago I was completely covered with a terrible humor and scrofulous sores. The humor caused an incessant and intolerable itching, and the skin cracked so as to cause the blood to flow in many places whenever I moved. My sufferings were great, and my life a burden. I commenced the use of the SARSAPARILLA in April last, and have used it regularly since that time. My condition began to improve at once. The sores have all healed, and I feel perfectly well in every respect—being now able to do a good day's work, although 73 years of age. Many inquire what has wrought such a cure in my case, and I tell them, as I have here tried to tell you, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Glover, Vt., Oct. 21, 1882. Yours gratefully, HIRAM PHILLIPS."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. It clears the blood of all impurities, aids digestion, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.
